

Highbury Corner Gyrotory

There must be hope that this gyrotory will go two way before the end of 2014. It's in the Islington Transport Strategy and TfL have allocated funding for it. Will the Cycle Superhighway be completed before the work at Highbury Corner? (There is an alternative route planned if this is the case. It will go down Caledonian Road.)

Madras Place on 24/11/11

We hoped that we'd be able to report that work on this crossing of Holloway Road had been finished. It is still uncompleted and we can't be sure when it will be!

Cycling on the Canal towpath

This regularly features in the local press. Interested members of ICAG met the Towpath Ranger from British Waterways at the end of October. British Waterways have written to local press about resolving congestion on the towpath. It was also signed by Martin Klute, a local councillor, Friends of Regents Canal, Hanover School, Living Streets and ICAG. The full text is on our website under Recent Posts.

W www.icag.org.uk

ICAG have been involved in the Two Tings project in the past. This involved stopping cyclists on the towpath and making sure they knew about the Two Tings Code of Conduct which encourages users to think of each other as they use the towpath – the photo shows us in action. The Code of Conduct is being revised. If anyone is interested in being involved, please contact

20's plenty

We were surprised and pleased to hear that the Council is planning to make all its roads 20mph. The executive committee of the Council voted on 24th November in favour of extending 20mph limits to Borough principal roads.

This seems to be a statement of intent without a budget, rather than a plan with dates for implementation. There's more on our website – Recent Posts

Islington's Transport Strategy 2011-2014

We responded at some length to the consultation on this. We were generally not impressed, particularly by the unambitious target for modal growth (the share of cycling in the total transport mix). Neighbouring boroughs (Camden and Hackney) were far more determined. The full response is on our website - Recent Posts

New Forum

ICAG is a member of the Highbury Fields Forum which was launched on November 26. It brings together a number of interested groups to advise the council on the management of Highbury Fields.

Owen St (near Goswell Road Triangle)

We had hopes that Owen Street would go into Council ownership reasonably soon – it is a private road at the moment. When that happens the Council will be able to make improvements for cyclists and walkers using that road. We were consulted about a temporary sign indicating shared use for walkers and cyclists. We had no strong feelings about this; we will be very pleased when it is changed the street for the better, however!

LCC AGM

One outcome of the AGM is that we have now a local member of the board - Christian Wolmar. If anyone wants to raise issues or highlight concerns, they can email him.

Ten years ago

Finsbury Park and Old Street roundabout feature (still unresolved). But there was a reminder that money towards childminding was available for people attending ICAG meetings, and notice of a Christmas Party!

On-line Voting

Thanks to all ICAG members who voted on our campaigning priorities. Removing gyratories, extending 20mph, increasing permeability were the most popular. As a result, we have been in touch with Better Archway Forum, and hope to work with them to remove the Archway Gytratory.

Archway Gytratory

Better Archway Forum (who campaign to improve facilities there) wrote an optimistic letter to the Tribune hoping for funding to make the Gytratory two way soon. This seems unlikely but when a developer is found to rebuild the entire area, TfL and LBI will siphon funding from the developer for work on the Gytratory. Meanwhile, there are works going on in Archway Close – in the middle of the gytratory. As the future of this area is uncertain, it seems odd. It is possibly because there is money to spend before the end of the financial year.

Veloteers

We met recently to discuss the next actions for Veloteers. There are two clusters of wards (Highbury East/Highbury West/Mildmay and Junction) where there are more Veloteers and they will be encouraged to meet and consider local initiatives.

The Canal towpath

At time of writing, we've seen a letter from Living Streets hoping for action from British Waterways and some consultation about improvements on the Islington section of the Canal. There is mention of chicanes, improved surface and a ban of cyclists. We are most concerned that, if a direct alternative route is enacted, a safe crossing for New North Road is included.

Sustrans are recruiting volunteers who love cycling and can help others in their community make more of their journeys by bike or foot. The role is supported by Sustrans who provide the Active Travel Champions with a training programme, materials and one to one support. The Champions' activities will vary from person to person but could include:

organizing a group ride (training provided), giving a talk/presentation to colleagues, plan a cycle maintenance session. It is a voluntary position (however any expenses are paid) and will involve a time commitment of up from 4 hours a month. Connect 2 trial

Following the March-April 2011 public consultation, the Council recommended that TfL trial the new road layout at St Thomas's Road. This trial will take place in January and February 2012. The results of the trial are likely to be available in March 2012. TfL is currently in discussions with the Council's Highways service about detailed arrangements for installing the temporary road layout during the trial. The temporary measures, like line painting and some kerb alignments, will require some lane closures and bus diversions. The top end of St Thomas's Road, where it meets the one-way system, will also be closed for a short period. Traffic will be diverted via Prah Road. Because of the required time to design and consult on the individual measures, the actual works on street will not take place until autumn 2012.

Archway 1 March 2012
The protest jointly organized by Better Archway Forum, Living Streets and ICAG was attended by about 200 people. While pedestrians seemed content to complete one circuit of the gyratory, cyclists were disappointed - "Only once round? Was this only a photo opportunity?" Islington Tribune printed two letters from ICAG members the following week; this prompted letters from Paul Convery, Labour executive member for planning, regeneration and transport and Janet Burgess Councillor for Junction Ward the following week. "We're all waiting for TfL" is a very simplified summary. There are photos and more on our website.

Width restriction Drayton Park

This has attracted much activity on our website. Designed to reduce HGV traffic speed, it has meant the loss of part of the cycle lane on the 2nd busiest cycle lane in the borough. A council officer wrote, "(The present scheme is)... less preferable for cyclists, however we do not feel the current layout is unsafe for cyclists for a number of reasons." This width restriction (2 metres), still allows quite large vehicles to pass through, see below.

King Cross July 2012
After a TfL redesign, there is now space for two vehicles to travel abreast into York Way from Grays Inn Road. They've made room for this by stopping traffic turning from Euston Road into York Way. We're not sure if it really improves things for cyclists. Traffic can travel faster through a gap wide enough for two and there's also a possibility of being pushed into the curb. A route for assertive cyclists!

Buddhists and cycle maintenance!

This fund raising event for Highbury Roundhouse (ICAG to support) takes place one Saturday in early September. Details to follow on the website.

Bunhill Row Contra-Flow

Travel as a cyclist from Old Street down Bunhill Row and you feel pleasantly welcomed. There's a segregated cycle lane until you reach the junction with Featherstone Street and if you want to go further, you wonder. There have been some road works - the broad pavement has been reduced, there's nothing forbidding cyclists going further...

The cyclist below wouldn't know whether he's legal or not - even though all the other traffic is going the other way.

There are notices up mainly saying that parking bays are being moved and that double yellow lines are going in. We wait for the next moves before we can say we've achieved the long awaited contra-flow cycling in Bunhill Row.

Drayton Park success?

Many words have been posted on our website about this scheme. We have to give credit to Sustrans who we believe made effective moves to have a rethink of the Drayton Park Width Restriction. The original concept was HGV ban on the road but in constructing a width restriction the Council met with our opposition. A new design has been drawn up which has pleased some, but not all! Maybe the joint campaign we ran with Living Streets, with a petition in Bike Week made some difference. We now wait for the new design to be put into effect. See www.icag.org.uk/2012/drayton-park-width-revisted/

Jono Kenyon discusses the present layout with a regular user of the route. Thanks to John Ackers for all the hard work he has done following this through.

Guest Editor needed

Anyone feel like putting this together next time? If it were me I'd be putting the weekend of Sept.22/23 aside - it doesn't take all weekend, but I find it best to allow plenty of time.

How we keep in touch...

More people "follow us" on Twitter than there are members of our Yahoo group. Our Facebook page is well visited so is our website. We hope we're covering all the bases!

From 10 Years Ago

Carl Lomas, boss of Camelot Courier Training and long time supporter of LCC, was awarded an MBE in the Golden Jubilee Queens Birthday List for services to training in the courier industry. Carl has been involved in training all forms of London couriers from pedal bike to motorcycle and van for ten years and his efforts were fundamental in putting together an NVQ qualification for couriers. Carl has printed this newsletter since the second issue and we think that should have been part of the citation! (Ed. At that time newsletters were photocopied by local groups and then put in the magazine by the local groups!)

LCC activist conference Sept 9

Several ICAG members attended. The focus was ward level campaigning in the run up to the 2014 local elections. This fits in well with ICAG's activities and we are getting more used to working at ward level. (Bunhill: Bunhill Row, Highbury West: Connect2). Also I think that LCC are expecting ICAG to show the way.

It was slightly worrying that some of the audience of local campaigners didn't know who their local ward councillors were and I guess a lot more had never talked to them - but they've got 2 years to find out. A lot of other issues came out in the Q&A. A couple of long distance commuters pointed to the variable quality of long cycle routes that pass through several boroughs. How can we better serve long distance commuting cyclists that don't have any representation in the borough?

One parent apparently said in a vox pop on the Big Ride earlier in the year that he just wanted his kids to be able to cycle to school. This phrase was re-quoted at the meeting and it resonated with a lot of people especially a couple of teachers. We need to engage with parents.

LCC wants to target the 600+ local wards in London but I wonder whether it would be better to focus on politically marginal wards?

John Ackers (Edited)

Boris bikes for the rest of Islington?

At a Council meeting in June there was cross party support for expansion of Boris bikes into the rest of Islington. We've also heard that a barrier to this is cost - about £150-200,000 per docking station. The LibDems in Islington also ran an online petition for this expansion, which is now closed.

20 mph success?

A 20mph Limit on Islington's Principal Road Network was announced in late July. This completes the 20 mph on all Islington roads that we've been campaigning for; however there will be financial implications, so we don't expect this to be implemented immediately! But it's still 30mph on Islington's trunk roads, managed by TfL.

Drayton park success?

The width restriction in Drayton Park has been reconstructed and there is better access for cyclists. Drivers seem to be quite confused though - they seem to take any route they like!

Canal Festival

Once again we had a stall where the usual mix of information and chat about cycling occurred. Overheard, "Soon there will be so many cyclists on the tow-path that speeding cyclists won't be an issue!"

STOP PRESS

Councillor James Murray - Executive member whose responsibilities include transport - will be the guest at the next ICAG meeting on Wednesday October 10. Please come along with your questions and comments.

Gillespie Park festival

We were so surprised when John Hegley, poet, comedian and musician dropped in to our stall at Gillespie Park. He donned a cyclist helmet for this picture with the Islington Cyclist editor.

We had a Doctor Bike and information stall.

TfL's Safer Junctions - but not for us, yet

Transport for London announced that they'd be making 50 junctions safer for walkers and cyclists by the end of 2013, possibly as a result of ICC campaigns. (Bow Flyover and Love London Go Dutch) 50 more will have work done "to be delivered after 2013." Junctions listed in Islington are Archway and Nag's Head Gyrotories, Highbury Corner, 2 junctions with Farringdon Road (Clerkenwell and Calthorpe Street), and 2 junctions with Seven Sisters Road (Blackstock Road and Isledon Road). They are, sadly, all scheduled for after 2013.

Olympics

Several ICAG members took part in the Olympic Opening Ceremony on 27th July. Adrian Platt and Alison Dines (pictured in costume) were in the industrial revolution and NHS section respectively whilst Robert Harston, who works with the LSO, was assisting backstage. Meanwhile outside the stadium some ICAG members took part in the monthly Critical Mass ride and were amongst 120 cyclists arrested. Lawyer and local Councillor Greg Foxsmith wrote about the incident in the Islington Tribune on 10th August. AD

10 years ago

The council appointed a full time cycling officer. Although temporary, Pip Howson's job was to deliver the London Cycling Network Plus programme.

No Freewheel/Skyride 2012

Seems odd not to be writing about hubs and led rides this September. Presumably the Mayor and TfL decided they couldn't afford it this year. Next year, perhaps?
